

FRENCH ARTILLERY NOW DOING THEIR FINEST WORK OF WEST FRONT OFFENSIVE

HAIG REPORTS TEUTON CANNONADING WEAKENS

ACTIVITY OF THE FRENCH BIG GUNS MAY MEAN BEGINNING OF ALLIED DRIVE TO FORCE BACK THE INVADERS

NO CHANGE IN THE BRITISH LINES

The French apparently are concentrating the heaviest artillery fire since the German drive started. On a fifty-six mile front extending from a point south of the Somme east the bombardment reported in a United Press dispatch from Henry Wood covered every inch of the German positions in the rear areas for miles back of their lines. Prisoners say that the cannonading has caused heavy German casualties and has prevented the enemy from digging in. The point of the farthest German position was included in this bombardment. It also includes the heaviest part of the southern leg of the Hindenburg triangle in this region, believed by many military critics to represent the most vulnerable part of the German advance. The next few hours are expected to reveal whether this cannonading is the beginning of a major counter offensive by the Allies.

On the Flanders front Haig claims to be holding his own. His official report today stated there was no change on the British front last night. The repulse of a determined enemy assault against Mt. Kemmerl and the complete breakdown of a German attack in the Bailleul sector was reported. Haig also reported heavy artillery fighting on the southern edge of the Flanders salient and the report of local attacks there. He spoke of heavy German losses in the fighting. The British withdrawal east of Ypres is not clearly outlined. Apparently Haig moved his line back an average of about three miles. It seems that it now runs from a mile and a half south of Ypres northwest to a point north of Langemarck which Hindenburg claims to occupy. The retirement must have necessitated a similar withdrawal of the Belgians, whose line joined Haig's near the railway which runs northeast through Langemarck. The Belgian report stated Germans attacked between this railway and LeBlankaert Pond, which attack was repulsed. This indicates an extension of the Flanders fighting to a point eight miles north of Ypres and less than three miles south of Bismude. This city is less than ten miles south of the place where the west front touches the North Sea.

HAIG'S REPORT

By United Press
London, April 18.—"German infantry attacking in three waves south-east of Kemmerl Hill pressed us back slightly at unknirk but a counter attack restored the situation," Field Marshal Haig's report today stated. "Shortly after mid day the attack had been repulsed at all points. In the Bailleul sector the enemy attacked three times before mid day but was completely repulsed. Our line yesterday was intact on the whole front during the night."

"TIGER" AND "GOAT"

Because the diplomacy of Count Czernin, premier and foreign minister of Austria-Hungary, causes Premier Clemenceau, the "Tiger" of France, to publish a letter Emperor Karl had written asking for peace with France, Czernin has been compelled to resign. It has been said the letter was really written by the mother-in-law of the emperor, and to save her and himself Czernin had to sign it.

'ORDERS IS ORDERS' GENERAL FINDS OUT

By Fred S. Ferguson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With The American Army On The Lorraine Front, March 21.—"Tin hat and with his gas mask on his chest a certain Brigadier General recently accompanied visitors from home on a tour of the trenches. Coming to a dugout, where a lieutenant was in command, the party stopped and the General, looking like any other fighting American of the line, explained to his guests how the men, the lieutenant and the visitors be shown in the dugout, with the following result:

"Sorry, sir, but it is strictly against orders to admit anyone to dugouts."

"But you can show these gentlemen, can't you?"

"No sir."

"Who did you get your order from?"

"From Colonel Blank, sir."

"And who did he get his order from?"

"From General ———, sir."

"Well, I'm General ———."

The lieutenant blushed clear thru the mud that had splattered on his face. The general complimented him on his observance of orders. The visitors had just a little peek at the dugout.

LOCAL LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE ITEMS ARE OF INTEREST

Prof. Zerfoss, L. W. Edwards and L. C. Norris, of Clearfield, together with C. S. Russell, Hugh M. Irvin and others from Curwensville attended a patriotic meeting held in the Greenville school house last evening, Charles Bilger presiding. Despite the violent rain storm the little old school house was packed with the sturdy farmers and their families. The spirit of patriotism was manifested by a cash contribution amounting to $2500.00, thus indicating that the farmer is willing to go the limit in defense of home and country.

Judge Singleton Bell, J. Free Weaver and A. R. Chase, Esq., went down to Surveyor yesterday afternoon and addressed a most enthusiastic meeting in the Methodist church there.

The committee in charge had all details worked out to a nicety and it resulted in one of the best meetings held in this section.

We did not get the amount of subscriptions secured but from the response the Surveyor people have made to every demand made thus far warrants us in saying the return was ample.

Mrs. Roll B. Thompson visited the Clearfield hospital yesterday afternoon in the interest of the Liberty Loan campaign and before leaving succeeded in securing subscription, totaling $1250, which clearly demonstrates that the hearts of the nurse out there are in the right place.

TRADE EXPERTS TO PLAU POST WAR COMMERCE

(By United Press)
Cincinnati, O., April 18.—"Dollar-a-year" experts of the United States government dropped their official duties today to meet foreign consultants of the U. S. representatives of the department of foreign and domestic commerce and the biggest businessmen of America in the Fifth National Foreign Trade Convention here.

The convention was postponed in February because Uncle Sam needed the services of his expert volunteers in Washington. Now, however, they come to Cincinnati with his approval to map out a system for extension of America's foreign trade after the war.

The National Foreign Trade Council plans to act along three lines at the convention:

To systematically increase and extend the foreign commerce of the country and thus build up a gold supply to aid in successful prosecution of the war.

To frame a program for holding foreign trade gains made during the war.

To work for a merchant marine which will assure America trade leadership of the world.

Consuls will be withdrawn from many parts of the world to attend the sessions.

Among the prominent speakers will be:

C. A. Hinsch of Cincinnati, President American Bankers' Association;

Philip B. Kennedy, commercial attaché of London; M. E. Barr, Cleveland, President American Shipbuilding Co.; F. W. Tassie, chairman U. S. Tariff Commission; James M. Cox, governor of Ohio; E. N. Hurley, chairman U. S. Shipping Board; and J. A. Farrell, president U. S. Steel Corporation.

Improving Nicely

The many friends of Comrade John B. Stauffer of Bunnside, who was recently operated upon at the Clearfield hospital, will be pleased to learn that he is getting along fairly well and his general condition is highly satisfactory.

REVERSE ACTION ON EMPLOYING POLICEMAN

Urgent Recommendation Of The Burgess Chase Precipitates First Scrap On New Council

MEETING NIGHT IS CHANGED

The regular meeting of council in the borough building last evening developed into a regular pitched battle—entirely verbal however—between Burgess Chase and several of the members of council. The scrap arose over the proposition to increase the police force by the addition of a third man.

During the municipal campaign of last fall the police department was the target for more or less criticism, deserved and otherwise, and in Burgess Chase's inaugural address he promised the people of the town better police service and in order to give that service advocated the increase of the police force to three men. The matter has since been before council and following the Burgess recommendation the council voted to put on a third man and directed the Public Safety committee and Burgess to make a recommendation to council at the second meeting in January.

At that time the committee reported that they believed conditions at this time didn't warrant burdening of the taxpayers with the expense of a third police and recommended that the matter of the selection of an extra policeman be laid upon the table until after April 1st and this recommendation was adopted.

At the meeting of council on April 3d Burgess Chase again called the matter to the attention of council and a motion was passed authorizing the election of a third policeman, the matter again being referred to the safety committee and the Burgess for a report at last night's meeting.

The Burgess and the committee met Tuesday evening but were not in shape to report when called upon last night. However Mr. Graham, of the committee offered a motion to postpone the consideration of a new policeman to some future time and this developed the scrap. After the motion had been properly placed before the meeting President Fletcher called upon each councilman in turn to give his views of the matter and Messrs. Thorn, Leitzinger, Thompson, Gallagher, Graham and Fletcher all expressed themselves as being against the additional burden at this time as they did not feel conditions warranted the enlargement of the police force. Messrs. Walther, Gordon, McCloskey and Hopfer took the opposite view. Burgess Chase was then called upon for his opinion and he expressed himself in no uncertain tones. He not only favored the increase of the force but jumped all over the members who opposed it, charging "rum shoe tactics" and other political maneuvering to upset the plan. He grew quite personal in his remarks which were objected to by Councilmen Graham, Thompson and Gallagher. President Fletcher told the Burgess his remarks were out of place, that the councilmen were responsible to the people for the expenditure of the taxes and had a right to caucus or gum shoe or what when matters were before them for disposition. Borough Solicitor Urey talked along similar lines. The motion was then put and carried. Messrs. Thorn, Leitzinger, Graham, Gallagher and Thompson voting in favor of laying the question on the table, while Messrs. Gordon, Hopfer, McCloskey and Walther voted in the negative.

The borough solicitor reported that the Clearfield banks would take the entire fire department equipment bond issue at par, and they were awarded them.

The finance committee were authorized to invest $1500 of the Firemen's Relief fund according to the terms of the ordinance governing same.

It was decided to change the meeting night of council from the first and third Wednesdays of each month to the first and third Mondays beginning with the next meeting which will be held Monday, May 6th.

When he had reached a proper frame of mind he slipped quietly down to the garage and running out his employers handsome big Pierce Arrow touring car started out on a joy ride.

The car was missed and Mike McGinniss and his torpedos started out to round up the erring chauffeur. Mike finally located him in the lower end of town and herded the car into the barn. After putting the car away Oswald departed with the keys and despite the efforts of Mike and the local police department the fellow could not be located.

This morning he boarded the 8:22 Pennsylvania train for Cleveland and as the keys had not been located and the departing gentleman had neglected to settle his board bill Chief Eadie had the Tyrone police pick him up on the arrival of the train and he will be back in Clearfield this evening.

HOW A FATHER FEELS TOWARD HIS SON

Much has been written of mother love and maternity. What of father love and paternity? The following from the Red Cross Magazine for April speaks volumes:

"Richardson Wright, in 'Letters To the Mother of a Soldier,' reminds us that 'Mother' is not the only one to pity when the boys go off. 'Father' needs a helping hand to bear his sorrow too. Says he:

'The going of their sons has worked a great transformation among fathers. They look ahead, just as you look ahead, for the outcome. The man child who bears their name is at the front. Here is pride for you! Here is also dread and anxiety and speechless horror.

'For a man looks on a son as an artist looks on the statue of the painting that his hands have created. He is the embodiment of his dreams, his wealth, his playmate, his scholar, his tutor, his available future. The mistakes he has made he shall rectify in his boy. The weakness to which he has succumbed, his boy shall conquer. To a father his son is his second chance, his beginning again, his hope of eternal salvation. So long as he has that boy he is immeasurably rich and his future is safe. When he loses him, he loses his immortality in the flesh.'

TO THE REAR, MARCH!

Having passed his physical test Major General Wood has been passed to the rear—Camp Funston, Kansas. So far as known he was not admitted to the Presence in the White House, during his visit to Washington. Indian fighter, Rough Rider, colonial governor, and founder of the Plattsburgh Training Camps, Wood has made an enviable record as a soldier and executive, but he early incurred the dislike of the President because of his preparedness talk during those criminally wasted days when we were "too proud to fight." His testimony given to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, immediately upon his return from France, was of a nature to raise the hair, and it was, at the General's request, confidentially rendered in order that the Administration might be as little embarrassed as possible in reviewing shortcomings. But even this seems to have been received as an affront by the President, calling for a slight to one of the ablest officers in the American army. Along about the time this slight was being visited on Wood the papers carried an article to the effect that with a view to increasing efficiency, the river on the Pacific Coast who drove the most rivets for a given month would be given a free trip to Washington, and that Chairman Hurley would even do what he could to let him see the President. Is all this the sort of Democracy for which we are making the world safe?

GLEN RICHEY MAN FINDS SON IS IN VERY GOOD HANDS

E. E. Lewis a well known Glen Richey resident, has just returned from a visit to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he was called on account of the serious illness of his son William P. Lewis, who is in the U. S. aviation service and located at Kelly Field. He reports his son as not only being out of danger but on the high road to health and strength. Mr. Lewis is loud in his praises of the treatment of the soldier boys in the huge base hospital at San Antonio. He called The Progress to tell us about it and asked that we make this statement in order that the fathers and mothers of boys in the service could be assured that their boys were being given every attention when taken sick and forced to go to the hospital.

He says that at the time of his visit there were 2000 patients in the hospital and that their care and treatment was a revelation to him. Everything possible was done for their comfort and well being and every patient he talked to was loud in his praises of everything connected with the hospital.

The Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. were untiring in their devotion to the sufferers, the ladies representing these organizations supplying the home touch needed to make the arrangements complete. "These ladies were untiring in their zeal and not only wrote letters for the boys unable to do so but saw to it that their every want was supplied.

While away Mr. Lewis visited four big army camps, and saw all told more than 370,000 soldiers. He also looked over about 3,000 of Uncle Sam's horses and mules in one batch and said that was some sight for a backwoodsman. Also that if any person believed our Uncle Sammie was not in this war in a mammoth and victory-assuring way, one trip over the ground he traveled would soon convince him otherwise.

FARM TRACTORS OF STATE IN USE IN SEVERAL PLACES

Lieutenant Governor McClain Tells of Progress Made on Farms

Philadelphia, April 17.—Frank B. McClain, Lieutenant Governor, who among his other numerous war activities is chairman of the State Tractor service committee of the Pennsylvania Commission of Safety and Defense, announced today that the work of placing tractors was progressing satisfactorily in spite of the delays in shipment of machines, caused by railroad conditions.

Mr. McClain said that the greater numbers of requests for tractors had been received from the farming counties of South Eastern Pennsylvania, which counties have been hardest hit in the matter of farm labor by the drain from munition factories and ship-building plants.

Tractors are now at work in seven counties out of the total of sixty-seven in Pennsylvania. They are as follows:

Lehigh, Columbia, Butler, Bradford, Crawford, Blair, Delaware, Bucks, Potter, Montgomery, Erie, Lawrence, Washington, Mercer, Tioga, Venango and Huntingdon.

One tractor will do in a day about four times as much work as a man, a team and a plough. The tractors will be worked 14 or 16 hours a day with double shifts, one operator working 7 or 8 hours, and being relieved by another who will take a similar tour of duty. It is estimated that a man and a team can plough about three acres per day, whereas a tractor can plough twice.

American soldiers who will be called to the colors will increase the demand tremendously. Never in the history of this country has the commodity commanded as high a price as is now paid for it.

Lambs and sheep have a food value that is not surpassed and the wool is short of meat. In spite of this increased demand both for wool and mutton, American farmers show a hesitation in the purchase of sheep, and this is a pity when both wool and mutton are in such demand. It would seem that the Pennsylvania farmer who raises sheep and mutton and takes care of his flock and probably increases his income that others who are not so careful in their sheep raising practice in the early spring and not demand and price increase and with his enterprise.

ROAD BUILDING

BENEFITS OF CONCRETE ROAD

Make Travel Quick, Safe and Easy, Clean and Comfortable—Saves More Than It Costs.

Concrete roads are country boulevards. They benefit a community in making travel quick, safe, easy, clean and comfortable. They extend neighborhood limits, bring more people into personal touch with each other, increase social opportunities and thereby remove the monotony of isolation; bring greater content to the youth on the farm, make city and country near neighbors and increase school attendance, thus cultivating a desire for a broader knowledge and higher standards of living.

Concrete roads make daily rural mail delivery a fact, every home unit in the community is put on the news wire with the political, financial, industrial and trading centers of the earth. The best thought of the world in every line of human effort and human achievement is transmitted overnight to the breakfast table of the community served by a network of concrete roads. A concrete road saves more than it costs. It is open to maximum traffic all the year round. It brings greater freedom and ease of movement in travel and transportation and permanently increases land values.

M'ADAM WAS ROAD REPAIRER

He Originated Method of Covering Surface of Ground With Impermeable Crust or Covering.

Just 200 years ago was born "the first of the pioneers who took up the work of scientific road building." John McAdam showed how to carry solid highways across difficult bogs, and Thomas Telford built his roads, topped with gravel, on a solid foundation of stone blocks. But the great reform of the art came in with John Loudon McAdam, who traveled 30,000 miles over the English and Scottish roads to study the conditions and needs for himself. Bestowing a new word on the language, he originated the method of covering the surface of the ground with an impermeable crust, cover or coating, so that water would not penetrate to the soil beneath. A road thus "macadamized" was found to yield less easily to weights pressing upon it, and could not be broken up by the action of frost. But while the inventor's fame spread his resources dwindled, and though made surveyor general of roads, he had to depend for his recompense on a parliamentary grant. McAdam was a road repairer rather than a road builder, but his system went all over the world.

Macadamized Road.

Every spring before the ground becomes too hard the road should be thoroughly gone over with a grader to clean out the ditches, so that the water may have a free outlet. The ruts and holes should be filled, elevations in the road and shadows on the side of the road planned off, the grade improved, and the road put in good condition.

SPRING CARE OF HIGHWAYS

Go Over Road With Grader to Clean Out Ditches—Fill All Ruts With New Material.

Every spring before the ground becomes too hard the road should be thoroughly gone over with a grader to clean out the ditches, so that the water may have a free outlet. The ruts and holes should be filled, elevations in the road and shadows on the side of the road planned off, the grade improved, and the road put in good condition.

Each road has a pronounced tendency to rut. When ruts begin to appear on the surface great care should be used in selecting new material, with which they should be filled immediately. One fundamental principle that is of special importance in the repair of any road is that whatever material is used in the construction of the surface, the same material—and no other—should be used in its repair. A good road with a surface of clay should be repaired by using clay; a gravel road with gravel and a surface of limestone with limestone.

Hog Needs Protection. The hog is often seriously provided with food in the warmer country and he is often the victim of disease. He should be protected from the elements and from the diseases of the country.

Sowing Clover Seeds. In sowing clover seeds, the farmer should be careful to use the best quality of seed and to sow it at the proper time and in the proper manner.

DEMAND FOR WOOL WILL MAKE SHEEP RAISERS A PROFIT

Philadelphia, April 17.—A movement for increasing the raising of wool. If the total annual clip were sheep is under way in all of the large sheep raising states of the nation and each person would have only thirty-six ounces for wearing apparel. To try has fallen into decay through untoward conditions. The United States Food Administration for Pennsylvania is hopeful that this state may benefit by this movement and that there will be an increase in the sheep-raising industry here. The idea of awakening farmers of the Keystone state to their opportunities at this time is being suggested to the various farmers' organizations.

Lend Him a Hand!

Here Is YOUR Boy—going over the top, his gun in hand, his jaw set, his heart on fire. It is the most dramatic moment in the life of this soldier—and in the life of this nation.

His heart and mind are set on one thing—VICTORY—victory over an enemy who stands for acts and ideas which this soldier despises—which he is ready to give his life to destroy.

We here at home hate these things, too. We are pledged to their destruction—to our last dollar and our last man. But this soldier can actually—get-his-hands-on-them—and root them out of the world forever—if we will lend him a hand.

This Boy Is the Symbol of Fighting America

He stands for the aspiration, the conviction of a hundred million people translated into action. He is doing what the rest of us are dreaming. Only through him can we win the Victory.

But He Can't Do It With His Bare Hands! He asks you to back him up with guns, shells, tanks, airplanes. Let's lend him a hand by lending our dollars. Then no power in the world can prevent him from winning the Victory.

The long fighting ages of the world have never seen a better soldier than this boy of yours—your son—your husband—your brother—your friend. He stands for the sons of America, hundreds of thousands strong, soon to be millions. He is doing his part—we must do ours!

DAIRY FACTS

ENORMOUS WASTE IN WINTER

Minnesota Dairy Expert Makes Startling Statement as to Amount of Milk That is Wasted.

Three and one-half billion pounds of milk are practically wasted in the dairy states every winter. This makes 21,000,000 pounds every day. The foregoing is a startling statement, but R. M. Washburn of the division of dairy husbandry, Minnesota College of Agriculture, says it is true. The farmer feeds most of his skim milk to hogs. This milk, fed to hogs, produces only 20 per cent of its energy value in edible pork. Eighty per cent of its energy value is lost. Mr. Washburn says, though, that some milk is necessary to start pigs off strongly.

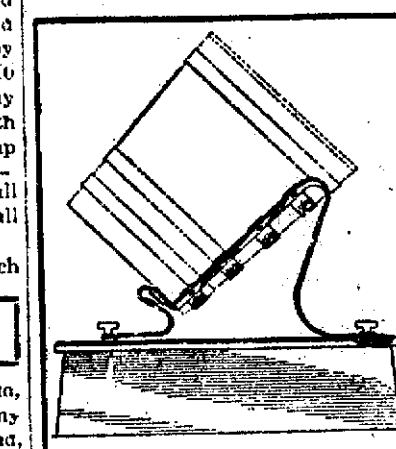

Much more of the energy value of the skim milk will be saved if it is made into cottage cheese. Every 100 pounds of skim milk, says Mr. Washburn, is equivalent to 20 pounds of ordinary meat, and will make 15 pounds of cottage cheese. The cheese contains about one-third more protein and one-third less energy than meat, and is therefore essentially equivalent to meat.

DEVICE ON BUTTER SCALES

Resilient Support Absorbs Most of Shock When Tub is Thrown Hastily on Platform.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing an attachment for scales, invented by F. D. Shea, 104 Chambers street New York, says:

This device is adapted particularly for the weighing of butter. It consists of a resilient support secured to the platform of the scales, which will absorb most of the shock when a tub of butter is thrown hastily thereon.

Attachment for Scales.

thus relieving the scales of jar and making it possible to ascertain the weight of a tub of butter more quickly.

OPEN SHED IS SATISFACTORY

Experiments Conducted by Department of Agriculture on Government Farm at Gettysville.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In experiments at Beltsville, Md., by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, a warm barn, commonly deemed essential for large milk production during the winter months, proved to be somewhat less satisfactory than an open shed. Experiments extending over three years showed that cows housed in the open shed consumed a little more feed, required more bedding and slightly increased labor cost, but because more milk was produced and on account of the lower cost of housing, the open shed was found to be somewhat more economical.

BEST GRASSES FOR PASTURE

When Sowing Make Up Mixture So That Some of Plants Will Be Growing at All Times.

It is possible for pasture to be so scant that the cow uses up all her energy in securing enough nutrients from it to maintain her body. When sowing for pasture make up a mixture of grasses such that some one of the grasses will be green and palatable at all times of the growing season.

REAL SUCCESS IN DAIRYING

End Can Be Brought About By Partnership Between Good Cow and Intelligent Feeder.

Real success in dairying comes from a partnership between the good cow and the good feeder. Many a good cow fails because never given a chance to prove her ability. If one would be a successful dairyman he must study the business, learn how to know cows and how to feed them.

Building Up Dairy Herd.

A good dairy herd is built up only after years of constructive breeding and selection. To sell these herds for beef would be to undo much of the effective work which has been done.

Keep All Milk Cows.

Don't dry up the milk cows. They are going to be scarce and high priced next year.

Perhaps the Philly climate will help Cy Williams to pasture better than he did with the Cubs. When he first broke in Cy looked like a topline.

THE THIRD LIBERTY LOAN

Uncle Sam's in need of more money. To help the boys that are in France, Don't walk around looking so funny, As though coming out of a trance.

The sum of Five Billions of dollars, Quite an item we must admit; But don't get hot under the collar, Reach down in your jeans and remit.

It's a plain fact and you can't dodge it.

No matter how you squirm and twist; For McAdoo surely will lodge it, Safe within the government's fist.

'Twould be better if loaned on interest.

And so help your country along; Than 'twould be to have the Hun claim it.

And you bet he'd make his claim strong.

Then, no interest to you would be paid.

The principal too would be gone; So hold up the plan U. S. has made, And help him to avenge the wrong.

Humanity has suffered keenly, Because of the blood-thirsty Hun; So our gold should be given freely, Till the freedom of mankind's won. F. E. Robinson, Bigler, Pa.

GLEN RICHEY FOLKS BUSY

A big Liberty Loan rally will be held in the K. G. E. hall at Glen Richey on Monday, April 22 at 7:30 o'clock. An entertaining musical program has been prepared for the occasion and a couple of Clearfield's very best have been secured to make addresses.

The committee in charge is hard at work day and night to make the affair a success and guarantee to put Glen Richey on the Third Liberty Loan map in bright red ink.

HISTORY OF IRISH FIGHT FOR HOME RULE

1870—Isaac Butt became leader of the movement for Irish Home Rule.

1878—Leadership of the movement passed to Charles Stuart Parnell.

1882—Negotiations between Parnell and Gladstone halted by the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke, in Phoenix Park, Dublin.

1886—Gladstone introduced his first Home Rule bill, and it was rejected by thirty votes.

1893—Gladstone succeeded in having his second Home Rule bill passed by the House of Commons, only to have it killed by the House of Lords.

Several succeeding attempts to bring about the enactment of bills to establish self-government in Ireland met with failure, but with each attempt the movement became stronger.

1905—Redmond's motion for a consideration of Home Rule defeated in the House of Commons by fifty votes.

1907—Government presented a Home rule bill. Convention of Irishmen at Dublin rejected it unanimously and the ministry dropped it.

1908—Redmond's motion for a consideration of Home Rule was carried by 156. No further action taken.

1911—Parliament passed an act abolishing the absolute veto power of the Lords.

1912—New Home Rule bill introduced in the House of Commons.

1913—Bill passed the third reading in January by 110 votes. Rejected by the House of Lords.

1913—Introduced a second time in April and passed in July by the Commons by 109 votes. Lords again rejected it.

1914—Passed the House of Commons for the third time on May 25.

1914—Signed by King George V on Sept. 18, and went on statute books.

1915—Application of Home Rule held up pending agreement of the rival Irish factions.

1916—Revolt in Ireland and martial law declared throughout the island. Arrest and execution of Sir Roger Casement and other revolutionists.

1917—Irish Nationalists in House of Commons presented a resolution calling for the immediate application of the Home Rule Law. The Government replied that Home Rule would not be forced upon Ulster.

1918—Premier Lloyd George announced the intention of the Government to apply Home Rule to Ireland and to grant the immediate application of the Home Rule Law.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the poisons. Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, constipated, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the struts of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water, with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderful invigorating. While you are enjoying your breakfast, the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Perhaps Jess Willard wanted to show up his former manager, Tom Jones, when he confessed to being 40 years old. Tom claimed that Jess was 35.

FAUNCE HAS A MALINGERER

The little town of Faunce is up in arms over a slacker or alleged slacker located in their midst. The story as the Faunce people tell is that when one of their young men was called for military service in Class 1 he presented a certificate to the exemption board of District No. 3 reciting the fact that he was so necessary to the prosecution of the clay digging operations of a well known brick making concern that they could not get along without him.

When the facts became generally known a quiet investigation revealed the fact, it is said, that no one in position to sign the name of the firm mentioned, could account for the manner in which their name became attached to the claim for exemption. The board at Houtzdale was notified and the young man will likely be given a cure for "cold feet" and passed along to Camp Lee soon.

FRENCH ARTILLERY NOW DOING THEIR FINEST WORK OF WEST FRONT OFFENSIVE

HAIG REPORTS TEUTON CANNONADING WEAKENS

ACTIVITY OF THE FRENCH BIG GUNS MAY MEAN BEGINNING OF ALLIED DRIVE TO FORCE BACK THE INVADERS

NO CHANGE IN THE BRITISH LINES

The French apparently are concentrating the heaviest artillery fire since the German drive started. On a fifty-six mile front extending from a point south of the Somme east the bombardment reported in a United Press dispatch from Henry Wood covered every inch of the German positions in the rear areas for miles back of their lines. Prisoners say that the cannonading has caused heavy German casualties and has prevented the enemy from digging in. The point of the farthest German position was included in this bombardment. It also includes the heaviest part of the southern leg of the Hindenburg triangle in this region, believed by many military critics to represent the most vulnerable part of the German advance. The next few hours are expected to reveal whether this cannonading is the beginning of a major counter offensive by the Allies.

On the Flanders front Haig claims to be holding his own. His official report today stated there was no change on the British front last night. The repulse of a determined enemy assault against Mt. Kemmerl and the complete breakdown of a German attack in the Bailleul sector was reported. Haig also reported heavy artillery fighting on the southern edge of the Flanders salient and the report of local attacks there. He spoke of heavy German losses in the fighting. The British withdrawal east of Ypres is not clearly outlined. Apparently Haig moved his line back an average of about three miles. It seems that it now runs from a mile and a half south of Ypres northwest to a point north of Langemarck which Hindenburg claims to occupy. The retirement must have necessitated a similar withdrawal of the Belgians, whose line joined Haig's near the railway which runs northeast through Langemarck. The Belgian report stated Germans attacked between this railway and LeBlankaert Pond, which attack was repulsed. This indicates an extension of the Flanders fighting to a point eight miles north of Ypres and less than three miles south of Bismude. This city is less than ten miles south of the place where the west front touches the North Sea.

HAIG'S REPORT

By United Press
London, April 18.—"German infantry attacking in three waves south-east of Kemmerl Hill pressed us back slightly at unknirk but a counter attack restored the situation," Field Marshal Haig's report today stated. "Shortly after mid day the attack had been repulsed at all points. In the Bailleul sector the enemy attacked three times before mid day but was completely repulsed. Our line yesterday was intact on the whole front during the night."

"TIGER" AND "GOAT"

Because the diplomacy of Count Czernin, premier and foreign minister of Austria-Hungary, causes Premier Clemenceau, the "Tiger" of France, to publish a letter Emperor Karl had written asking for peace with France, Czernin has been compelled to resign. It has been said the letter was really written by the mother-in-law of the emperor, and to save her and himself Czernin had to b th "goat."

'ORDERS IS ORDERS' GENERAL FINDS OUT

By Fred S. Ferguson
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With The American Army On The Lorraine Front, March 21.—Tin hatted and with his gas mask on his chest a certain Brigadier General recently accompanied visitors from home on a tour of the trenches. Coming to a dugout, where a lieutenant was in command, the party stopped and the General, looking like any other fighting American of the line, explained to his guests how the men, the lieutenant that the visitors be shown in the dugout, with the following result:

"Sorry, sir, but it is strictly against orders to admit anyone to dugouts."

"But you can show these gentlemen, can't you?"

"No sir."

"Who did you get your order from?"

"From Colonel Blank, sir."

"And who did he get his order from?"

"From General ———, sir."

"Well, I'm General ———."

LOCAL LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE ITEMS ARE OF INTEREST

Prof. Zerfoss, L. W. Edwards and L. C. Norris, of Clearfield, together with C. S. Russell, Hugh M. Irvin and others from Curwensville attended a patriotic meeting held in the Greenville school house last evening, Charles Bilger presiding. Despite the violent rain storm the little old school house was packed with the sturdy farmers and their families. The spirit of patriotism was manifested by a cash contribution amounting to $2500.00, thus indicating that the farmer is willing to go the limit in defense of home and country.

Judge Singleton Bell, J. Free Weaver and A. R. Chase, Esq., went down to Surveyor yesterday afternoon and addressed a most enthusiastic meeting in the Methodist church there. The committee in charge had all details worked out to a nicety and it resulted in one of the best meetings held in this section. We did not get the amount of subscriptions secured but from the response the Surveyor people have made to every demand made thus far warrants us in saying the return was ample.

Mrs. Roll B. Thompson visited the Clearfield hospital yesterday afternoon in the interest of the Liberty Loan campaign and before leaving succeeded in securing subscription, totaling $1250, which clearly demonstrates that the hearts of the nurse out there are in the right place.

TRADE EXPERTS TO PLAU POST WAR COMMERCE

(By United Press)

Cincinnati, O., April 18.—"Dollar-a-year" experts of the United States government dropped their official duties today to meet foreign consultants of the U. S. representatives of the department of foreign and domestic commerce and the biggest businessmen of America in the Fifth National Foreign Trade Convention here.

The convention was postponed in February because Uncle Sam needed the services of his expert volunteers in Washington. Now, however, they come to Cincinnati with his approval to map out a system for extension of America's foreign trade after the war.

The National Foreign Trade Council plans to act along three lines at the convention: To systematically increase and extend the foreign commerce of the country and thus build up a gold supply to aid in successful prosecution of the war.

To frame a program for holding foreign trade gains made during the war. To work for a merchant marine which will assure America trade leadership of the world.

Consuls will be withdrawn from many parts of the world to attend the sessions. Among the prominent speakers will be: C. A. Hirsch of Cincinnati, President American Bankers' Association; Philip B. Kennedy, commercial attaché of London; M. E. Farr, Cleveland, President American Shipbuilding Co.; F. W. Tassie, chairman U. S. Tariff Commission; James M. Cox, governor of Ohio; E. N. Hurley, chairman U. S. Shipping Board; and J. A. Farrell, president U. S. Steel Corporation.

IMPROVING NICELY
The many friends of Comrade John B. Stauffer of Bunnside, who was recently operated upon at the Clearfield hospital, will be pleased to learn that he is getting along fairly well and his general condition is highly satisfactory.

REVERSE ACTION ON EMPLOYING POLICEMAN

Urgent Recommendation Of The Burgess Chase Precipitates First Scrap On New Council

MEETING NIGHT IS CHANGED

The regular meeting of council in the borough building last evening developed into a regular pitched battle—entirely verbal however—between Burgess Chase and several of the members of council. The scrap arose over the proposition to increase the police force by the addition of a third man.

During the municipal campaign of last fall the police department was the target for more or less criticism, deserved and otherwise, and in Burgess Chase's inaugural address he promised the people of the town better police service and in order to give that service advocated the increase of the police force to three men. The matter has since been before council and following the Burgess recommendation the council voted to put on a third man and directed the Public Safety committee and Burgess to make a recommendation to council at the second meeting in January.

At that time the committee reported that they believed conditions at this time didn't warrant burdening of the taxpayers with the expense of a third police and recommended that the matter of the selection of an extra policeman be laid upon the table until after April 1st and this recommendation was adopted.

At the meeting of council on April 3d Burgess Chase again called the matter to the attention of council and a motion was passed authorizing the election of a third policeman, the matter again being referred to the safety committee and the Burgess for a report at last night's meeting.

The Burgess and the committee met Tuesday evening but were not in shape to report when called upon last night. However Mr. Graham, of the committee offered a motion to postpone the consideration of a new policeman to some future time and this developed the scrap. After the motion had been properly placed before the meeting President Fletcher called upon each councilman in turn to give his views of the matter and Messrs. Thorn, Leitinger, Thompson, Gallagher, Graham and Fletcher all expressed themselves as being against the additional burden at this time as they did not feel conditions warranted the enlargement of the police force. Messrs. Walther, Gordon, McCloskey and Hopfer took the opposite view. Burgess Chase was then called upon for his opinion and he expressed himself in no uncertain tones. He not only favored the increase of the force but jumped all over the members who opposed it, charging "rum shoe tactics" and other political maneuvering to upset the plan. He grew quite personal in his remarks which were objected to by Councilmen Graham, Thompson and Gallagher. President Fletcher told the Burgess his remarks were out of place, that the councilmen were responsible to the people for the expenditure of the taxes and had a right to caucus or gum shoe or what when matters were before them for disposition. Borough Solicitor Urey talked along similar lines. The motion was then put and carried. Messrs. Thorn, Leitinger, Graham, Gallagher and Thompson voting in favor of laying the question on the table, while Messrs. Gordon, Hopfer, McCloskey and Walther voted in the negative.

The borough solicitor reported that the Clearfield banks would take the entire fire department equipment bond issue at par, and they were awarded them.

The finance committee were authorized to invest $1500 of the Firemen's Relief fund according to the terms of the ordinance governing same.

It was decided to change the meeting night of council from the first and third Wednesdays of each month to the first and third Mondays beginning with the next meeting which will be held Monday, May 6th.

Complaint regarding surface water from O'ell Mitchell property on Ogden avenue, tapping of Spruce street sewer and request for a sewer on West Third avenue were referred to Sewer committee for investigation and report at next meeting.

Request of John Tridley for permit to place pipe in ditch in front of his property on South street referred to Highway department.

CHAUFFEUR JOY RIDER RUNS INTO TROUBLE

Emerson Oswald, who blew into Clearfield some two or three weeks ago, claiming to be from Cleveland, Ohio, secured a job as chauffeur for A. W. Lee. He appeared to get along alright but after receiving his pay yesterday proceeded to load up a little more red liquor than a fellow of his standing in society should appropriate to himself. When he had reached a proper frame of mind he slipped quietly down to the garage and running out his employers handsome big Pierce Arrow touring car started out on a joy ride.

The car was missed and Mike McGinniss and his torpedos started out to round up the erring chauffeur. Mike finally located him in the lower end of town and herded the car into the barn. After putting the car away Oswald departed with the keys and despite the efforts of Mike and the local police department the fellow could not be located.

This morning he boarded the 8:22 Pennsylvania train for Cleveland and as the keys had not been located and the departing gentleman had neglected to settle his board bill Chief Eadie had the Tyrone police pick him up on the arrival of the train and he will be back in Clearfield this evening.

LANDED IN JAIL

Constable Mike Devine landed Maurice Peters, of DuBois, in jail this morning charged with robbing the Hibner-Hoover Hardware store and James Schwem's wholesale liquor store in DuBois. Peters stole revolvers, whiskey and other ammunition and beat it for the woods beyond the Anderson creek reservoir when Constable Devine and Constable J. D. Leslie of Rockton rounded him up in a real wild west fashion.

M'ADOO PUTS GOAL AT 5 MILLION DOLLARS: NOW ALL TOGETHER, PUSH

Washington, April 18.—With Liberty Loan subscription now well over $1,000,000,000 it was learned today that Secretary McAdoo had set $5,000,000,000 as a minimum result with which he will be satisfied. The official figures—subscriptions on which the first installment of five per cent has actually been deposited—reached $1,059,538,000 last night. Millions more have been subscribed with no payment as yet. Together with the initial payment on these, notices are being sent out today to those whose names have been turned in but who have not paid in any money. The daily average of subscriptions is still far below what it should be if the three billion is reached or exceeded. Treasury officials announced today. In the middle west the response continues to be enthusiastic.

ACCURACY OF FIRING IS BRINGING RESULTS ON THE AMERICAN FRONT

With The American Army In Lorraine, April 17.—The American artillery on this front already has reduced the German artillery by two-thirds; silencing enemy batteries with only a few minutes bombardment. The French are amazed at the Yankee gunners' accuracy. A lieutenant commanding one gun spotted a German "rolling kitchen." "By gosh, I bet I can splash one in Heinie's soup," he exclaimed. The first shot was too "long". The second shot was too "short". The third shot split the soup. This is just an example of the extremely small target the American artillery are capable of hitting. The Americans are now the masters of No Man's Land on this sector. Every night five to eight patrols hurry through the outpost and smash the enemy's lookouts, listening posts and machine gun nests. An officer and three men raided five machine gun covers, a field telephone post and some snipers' hiding places without loss. They spent five hours hunting the entire area before that section of the American trenches.

GREAT LIBERTY LOAN MAN OF IRON GETS MEETING HELD AT CURWENSVILLE PLACE IN BRITAIN'S WAR CABINET

Curwensville, April 18.—A great patriotic mass meeting was held Tuesday evening in the Methodist church under the auspices of the Liberty Loan Committee. The Crescent band preceded the meeting by an open air concert thereby greatly building up the interest and attendance of the meeting. Led by a large chorus the meeting, over which R. D. Swoope, Esq., ably presided, was opened by the large concourse singing the "Star Spangled Banner." Appropriate prayer was made by Rev. J. Max Lantz. The congregation sang two inspiring hymns, "Show Your Colors" and "The Battle Front." Hon. H. L. Rider, of Pittsburgh, an ex-Senator, was presented as the orator of the evening in a fervid speech of introduction by R. D. Swoope, Esq. Very plain and soul-gripping did the speaker make the issues of the present titanic world war. Among other descriptive and suggestive expressions used were these: "That arch fiend of 1914, the Kaiser." "The trinity that will win this war: Bombs, Bullets and Brains—and we have them."

"America" was lustily sung by the mass meeting at the conclusion of this able address. Chairman C. S. Russell of the local Liberty Loan Committee stated that the allotment for Curwensville and its vicinity is $201,000 of the total $5,000,000,000. Five Brick Company, already has pledged $30,000. The only business plan was explained.

Announcement was made that the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet at the High School Thursday, 18th, at 7:30 P. M. The closing remarks of Chairman Swoope emphasized the fact that the patriotic of the community is responsible in the success of the Liberty Loan Third Liberty Loan Week. Standard leg.

HOW A FATHER FEELS TOWARD HIS SON

Much has been written of mother love and maternity. What of father love and paternity? The following from the Red Cross Magazine for April speaks volumes:

"Richardson Wright, in 'Letters To the Mother of a Soldier,' reminds us that 'Mother' is not the only one to pity when the boys go off. 'Father' needs a helping hand to bear his sorrow too. Says he:

'The going of their sons has worked a great transformation among fathers. They look ahead, just as you look ahead, for the outcome. The man child who bears their name is at the front. Here is pride for you! Here is also dread and anxiety and speechless horror.

'For a man looks on a son as an artist looks on the statue of the painting that his hands have created. He is the embodiment of his dreams, his wealth, his playmate, his scholar, his tutor, his available future. The mistakes he has made he shall rectify in his boy. The weakness to which he has succumbed, his boy shall conquer. To a father his son is his second chance, his beginning again, his hope of eternal salvation. So long as he has that boy he is immeasurably rich and his future is safe. When he loses him, he loses his immortality in the flesh.'

TO THE REAR, MARCH!

Having passed his physical test Major General Wood has been passed to the rear—Camp Funston, Kansas. So far as known he was not admitted to the Presence in the White House, during his visit to Washington. Indian fighter, Rough Rider, colonial governor, and founder of the Plattsburgh Training Camps, Wood has made an enviable record as a soldier and executive, but he early incurred the dislike of the President because of his preparedness talk during those criminally wasted days when we were "too proud to fight." His testimony given to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, immediately upon his return from France, was of a nature to raise the hair, and it was, at the General's request, confidentially rendered in order that the Administration might be as little embarrassed as possible in reviewing shortcomings. But even this seems to have been received as an affront by the President, calling for a slight to one of the ablest officers in the American army. Along about the time this slight was being visited on Wood the papers carried an article to the effect that with a view to increasing efficiency, the river on the Pacific Coast who drove the most rivets for a given month would be given a free trip to Washington, and that Chairman Hurley would even do what he could to let him see the President. Is all this the sort of Democracy for which we are making the world safe?

GLEN RICHEY MAN FINDS SON IS IN VERY GOOD HANDS

E. E. Lewis a well known Glen Richey resident, has just returned from a visit to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he was called on account of the serious illness of his son William P. Lewis, who is in the U. S. aviation service and located at Kelly Field. He reports his son as not only being out of danger but on the high road to health and strength. Mr. Lewis is loud in his praises of the treatment of the soldier boys in the huge base hospital at San Antonio. He called The Progress to tell us about it and asked that we make this statement in order that the fathers and mothers of boys in the service could be assured that their boys were being given every attention when taken sick and forced to go to the hospital.

He says that at the time of his visit there were 2000 patients in the hospital and that their care and treatment was a revelation to him. Everything possible was done for their comfort and well being and every patient he talked to was loud in his praises of everything connected with the hospital.

The Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. were untiring in their devotion to the sufferers, the ladies representing these organizations supplying the home touch needed to make the arrangements complete. "These ladies were untiring in their zeal and not only wrote letters for the boys unable to do so but saw to it that their every want was supplied.

While away Mr. Lewis visited four big army camps, and saw all told more than 370,000 soldiers. He also looked over about 3,000 of Uncle Sam's horses and mules in one batch and said that was some sight for a backwoodsman. Also that if any person believed our Uncle Sammie was not in this war in a mammoth and victory-assuring way, one trip over the ground he traveled would soon convince him otherwise.

FARM TRACTORS OF STATE IN USE IN SEVERAL PLACES

Lieutenant Governor McClain Tells of Progress Made on Farms

Philadelphia, April 17.—Frank B. McClain, Lieutenant Governor, who among his other numerous war activities is chairman of the State Tractor service committee of the Pennsylvania Commission of Safety and Defense, announced today that the work of placing tractors was progressing satisfactorily in spite of the delays in shipment of machines, caused by railroad conditions.

Mr. McClain said that the greater numbers of requests for tractors had been received from the farming counties of South Eastern Pennsylvania, which counties have been hardest hit in the matter of farm labor by the drain from munition factories and ship-building plants.

Tractors are now at work in seven counties out of the total of sixty-seven in Pennsylvania. They are as follows:

Lehigh, Columbia, Butler, Bradford, Crawford, Blair, Delaware, Bucks, Potter, Montgomery, Erie, Lawrence, Washington, Mercer, Tioga, Venango and Huntingdon.

One tractor will do in a day about four times as much work as a man, a team and a plough. The tractors will be worked 14 or 16 hours a day with double shifts, one operator working 7 or 8 hours, and being relieved by another who will take a similar tour of duty. It is estimated that a man and a team can plough about three acres per day, whereas a tractor can plough twice.

American soldiers who will be called to the colors will increase the demand tremendously. Never in the history of this country has the commodity commanded as high a price as is now paid for it.

Lambs and sheep have a food value that is not surpassed and the wool is short of meat. In spite of this increased demand both for wool and mutton, American farmers show a hesitation in the purchase of sheep, and this is a pity when both meat and mutton are in such demand. It would seem that the Pennsylvania farmer who raises sheep is a man who is not taking advantage of the situation and probably because he has heard that others who have purchased sheep have been disappointed in the quality of the animals and have been forced to sell them at a loss.

ROAD BUILDING

BENEFITS OF CONCRETE ROAD

Make Travel Quick, Safe and Easy, Clean and Comfortable—Saves More Than It Costs.

Concrete roads are country boulevards. They benefit a community in making travel quick, safe, easy, clean and comfortable. They extend neighborhood limits, bring more people into personal touch with each other, increase social opportunities and thereby remove the monotony of isolation; bring greater content to the youth on the farm, make city and country near neighbors and increase school attendance, thus cultivating a desire for a broader knowledge and higher standards of living.

Concrete roads make daily rural mail delivery a fact, every home unit in the community is put on the news wire with the political, financial, industrial and trading centers of the earth. The best thought of the world in every line of human effort and human achievement is transmitted overnight to the breakfast table of the community served by a network of concrete roads. A concrete road saves more than it costs. It is open to maximum traffic all the year round. It brings greater freedom and ease of movement in travel and transportation and permanently increases land values.

M'ADAM WAS ROAD REPAIRER

He Originated Method of Covering Surface of Ground With Impermeable Crust or Covering.

Just 200 years ago was born "the first of the pioneers who took up the work of scientific road building." John McAdam showed how to carry solid highways across difficult bogs, and Thomas Telford built his roads, topped with gravel, on a solid foundation of stone blocks. But the great reform of the art came in with John Loudon McAdam, who traveled 30,000 miles over the English and Scottish roads to study the conditions and needs for himself. Bestowing a new word on the language, he originated the method of covering the surface of the ground with an impermeable crust, cover or coating, so that water would not penetrate to the soil beneath. A road thus "macadamized" was found to yield less easily to weights pressing upon it, and could not be broken up by the action of frost. But while the inventor's fame spread his resources dwindled, and though made surveyor general of roads, he had to depend for his recompense on a parliamentary grant. McAdam was a road repairer rather than a road builder, but his system went all over the world.

Macadamized Road.

Every spring before the ground becomes too hard the road should be thoroughly gone over with a grader to clean out the ditches, so that the water may have a free outlet. The ruts and holes should be filled, elevations in the road and shadows on the side of the road planned off, the grade improved, and the road put in good condition.

SPRING CARE OF HIGHWAYS

Go Over Road With Grader to Clean Out Ditches—Fill All Ruts With New Material.

Every spring before the ground becomes too hard the road should be thoroughly gone over with a grader to clean out the ditches, so that the water may have a free outlet. The ruts and holes should be filled, elevations in the road and shadows on the side of the road planned off, the grade improved, and the road put in good condition.

Each road has a pronounced tendency to rut. When ruts begin to appear on the surface great care should be used in selecting new material, with which they should be filled immediately. One fundamental principle that is of special importance in the repair of any road is that whatever material is used in the construction of the surface, the same material—and no other—should be used in its repair. A good road with a surface of clay should be repaired by using clay; a gravel road with gravel and a surface of limestone with limestone.

Hog Needs Protection. The hog is often seriously provided with food in the warmer country and he is often the victim of disease. He is often the victim of disease. He is often the victim of disease.

Save Your Seed. In the spring of the year, the seed is often the victim of disease. He is often the victim of disease. He is often the victim of disease.

Clothes for real Americans

Here are three serious minded youngsters. It's hard to tell which one's luckiest.

And each one's "doing his bit." Father's doing it by keeping the "pot boiling" at home. He's making every dollar do its duty; looking twice at what he spends and twice at what he buys. And he buys

Men's and Boys' Shoes That Wear Better and Cost Less

Shoing the men-folks of the family is a serious problem these days. What with scarcity of labor, steadily advancing leather costs, uncertainty of shipping, shoes are becoming more and more of a matter for careful consideration.

You want quality first. We have it. You want a reasonable price on the price tag. We have exceptionally reasonable prices—quality considered—on all the shoes in our stock.

Drop in the store. Let us show you some of the real quality that our shoe makers have put in the shoes on our shelves.

Men's Dress Shoes

They're dressy from tip to heel and will give you all sorts of shoe satisfaction.

The United States Food Administration for Pennsylvania is hopeful that this state may benefit by this movement and that there will be an increase in the sheep-raising industry here. UNKNOWN SOLDIER AWARDED THE COVETED CROIX DE GUERRE

By Henry Wood
United Press Staff Correspondent
With the French Armies, March 5--(By Mail)--To the Seventy-ninth French regiment of Infantry belongs the honor of the only citation in the present war to "An Unknown Soldier."

The Croix de Guerre, the citation medal, and which in view of the hero's death, would ordinarily be given by the French government to the soldier's nearest relatives, was unveiled at the Ministry of War at Paris. All that is known of the man is the manner of his death and the fact that he is buried where he fell at the heights of Saint Epyre.

The story of this "Unknown Soldier" is unquestionably the story of thousands of other French heroes in the early days of the war before means of identification of the dead had been established and when regiments were hurriedly formed, thrown into action and decimated before a single law the name of the comrade fighting at his side.

The only difference is that this "Unknown Soldier" received a citation for his life's sacrifice and the others did not.

This is the story:
On August 26, 1914, during the offensive, the First Battalion of the Seventy-ninth Regiment of Infantry, which had been decimated at Moras, was hastily reformed in the vicinity of Rosieres-aux-Salmes from a contingent of reserves which had been rubbed up.

Before the battle the original strength of the battalion had been reduced to a few hundred men. Time even to get acquainted with their new comrades, the battalion was engaged by the Germans in a violent attack on the heights of Saint Epyre near Lunerville.

At 5 in the afternoon, the advance line of the battalion took a back of a little ridge which it held from the Germans who were 100 yards ahead. A veritable storm of rifle and arti-

lery fire whistled constantly over the heads of the sheltered French battalion.

Suddenly, from out of the ranks of the Third company, an unknown soldier who has just arrived that morning, leaped to the summit of the little ridge under which the battalion was resting.

Dropping to his knees, with a pipe hanging from his mouth, he began tranquilly to fire shot after shot into the ranks of the Germans just 100 yards ahead.

Conspicuous reigned in the ranks of the First Battalion of the Seventy-ninth. Then, the officers recovering from their surprise, ordered the man back into ranks.

But the latter, without ceasing to fire, an instant his firing and without even dropping his pipe from his mouth bellowed back:

"Leave me alone. I'm an expert marksman and I want to do something for my country while I have such a fine chance to do it."

From the very first instant of his appearance on the summit of the ridge the rifle fire of the entire regiment of Germans was centered on him. Yet for a full five minutes he continued tranquilly to fire with sure aim into their ranks before he finally fell riddled with bullets, the stock of his rifle shattered into splinters, and his pipe knocked from his mouth as he rolled over on the ground.

A moment afterwards, the Seventy-ninth leaped again to the assault and drove the Germans down the ridge.

That night the Seventy-ninth buried their hero on the summit of the ridge where he had fallen. There was nothing about his person to indicate his identity. His deed of heroism was signaled to the Ministry of War. The Ministry of War did everything in its power to identify the soldier but without results. Unwilling that the sacrifice should go unrecorded, the citation was granted in the name of "An Unknown Soldier."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SQUIRREL FEAST.

"Come to the feast," said Sharpy, the squirrel.

"I'll be delighted," said Chippy Chippy. It was snowing in the park and the squirrels were hurrying and scampering for their warm homes in the trees.

"Are you going to have a good feast?" asked Chippy Chippy.

"A fine one," squeaked Sharpy. "The spring will be here soon so we might as well enjoy our food. Soon we can hunt for more."

"Dear me," said Chippy Chippy. "How careless you are becoming." And to himself he thought it was fine that he was invited to a feast by Sharpy which Sharpy said would be a fine one, and he was glad too that Sharpy wasn't being too careful.

It was so much nicer to go to a feast where creatures weren't careful. Chippy Chippy had been to both kinds and he knew.

He knew of the many times he had come home to eat and nibble because he had not enough to eat when he had been asked out. And some creatures hadn't always cared what they had given him. Some squirrels had offered him the shells only of their nuts.

And he had even known children to give him nuts that were bad. Yes,

"You Did," shrieked Chippy Chippy, when he went out to a party, or when folks offered him food he did like to have it of the best.

So he was much cheered up because Sharpy had said it would be a splendid feast.

"When are you going to have it?" asked Chippy Chippy.

"This very afternoon," said Sharpy. "We'll probably quarrel a little," said Chippy Chippy, hoping they wouldn't quarrel over the food.

"Oh that won't matter," said Sharpy. "A little fighting is good for our digestions."

"What are digestions?" asked Chippy Chippy, cocking his head on one side, and whisking his tail up high.

"Digestions," squeaked Sharpy, "are our tummies when food is received by them happily. To have a good digestion means we can eat anything, to have a bad one means that we have aches and pains and feel very poorly, and that food is disagreeable to us."

"We certainly have good digestions," said Chippy Chippy.

"We must assuredly have," agreed Sharpy.

"And is fighting good for us, do you think?"

"Excellent," said Sharpy.

"Isn't afternoon here now," said Chippy Chippy. "It seems as if I had been talking to you all the morning."

"Not polite to talk like that," squeaked Sharpy. "It should give you great pleasure to talk with me."

"It does, Sharpy dear," said Chippy Chippy, "but it gives me even more pleasure, if that could be possible, to eat with you."

Chippy Chippy said this with a sly little wink. But Sharpy did not notice it. He was feeling hungry himself.

"Come along, afternoon or not, we'll have the feast."

So they went to Sharpy's hole, and of all the wonderful feasts Chippy Chippy saw one that did his heart or his tummy or his digestion, he wasn't sure which, a great deal of good.

"My mouth waters!" exclaimed Chippy Chippy. "My! But there is a feast here. Where did you steal all these nuts from? They certainly aren't saved up ones. You'd never have so many left over at this time of the year if they were only saved up ones."

"I did save them," said Sharpy. "I didn't steal! I didn't!"

"You did!" shrieked Chippy Chippy. "Now that you are becoming so angry about it, I am sure you have been stealing. And now you are not telling the truth!"

"You say I steal, and you say I don't tell the truth. I'll punish you for that!"

And they began to fight. As a matter of fact Chippy Chippy had no right to scold Sharpy for stealing, as he was only too glad to eat some of his stolen food, and too, Chippy Chippy had just as bad a reputation for stealing as had Sharpy. All squirrels are famed for it.

But they fought and they fought until they were all tired out and until the nuts had been almost forgotten. But over awhile they stopped fighting and made up.

"I'm glad you've got the nuts anyway," said Chippy Chippy. "And I really don't care how you got them."

"Of course you don't," said Sharpy, as they both launched as fast as they could.

It seems to have been just as easy to form a new International League as it was for the Pirates to break into the first division last year.

POULTRY

BREEDING TURKEYS ON FARM

Surprisingly Small Number of Fowls on Farms—More Could and Ought to Be Raised.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Raise more turkeys on the farm. It can be done with little additional outlay, and many more turkeys could and should be raised.

The small number of turkeys per farm in the United States is surprising. According to the census of 1910, which is the latest census that has been taken, only 13.7 per cent of the total number of farms reported any turkeys at all and on these farms reporting turkeys, an average of but slightly over four breeding turkeys was found per farm. There are some farms which by the nature of the crops grown on them or because of unfavorable surroundings are not adapted to turkey raising, but most farms are adapted to turkey raising and could easily handle a breeding flock of from 10 to 15 hen turkeys and a tom, raising from 75 to 150 turkeys each year at a good profit.

Good prices were paid to the turkey raiser during the past marketing season. On December 15, 1917, the average price per pound live weight paid to the farmer was 30.5 cents in New York state, 27.7 cents in Illinois, 25 cents in Georgia, 19.3 cents in Texas, and 27.1 cents in California. The average price throughout the United States was 23 cents.

BEST POULTRY HOUSE FLOOR

Each Has Its Advantages and Disadvantages and All Should Be Carefully Considered.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In making the floor of the poultry house several things must be taken into consideration. Where the soil on which the house is constructed is light and well drained, earth floors are satisfactory and economical. Where the soil is heavy and drainage is not good, as is usually the case when it contains much clay, floors made of wood or cement are generally preferred. Each kind of floor has its advantages and disadvantages, and it is only after the consideration of all types should a poultry keeper make his selection.

A floor of earth needs to be renewed at least once a year. If the droppings that fall upon the floor are carefully removed at frequent regular intervals, much of the earth is removed with them. If the regular cleaning of the floor is superficial, the earth of the floor to a depth of several inches becomes so mixed with droppings that its condition is very insanitary.

When the poultry keeper has a garden, the manure obtained by removing the earth floor of the poultry house will compensate for the labor of renewing the floor, and the new earth required can be taken from a convenient spot on his own land. When the poultry keeper must pay some one else to take away the old earth and bring in new, the cost will in a few years exceed the cost of a cement floor.

The principal fault of a cement floor is that it is likely to be cold and damp. These conditions may be corrected by covering the floor to a depth of an inch or two with dry earth or sand, using over this scratching litter of straw or shavings. Floors so treated require as much routine work to keep them in good order as earth floors, but the supply of clean earth required is much less and the work of annual renovation is eliminated.

Floors of wood are not now much used in poultry houses except when the space under the floor is high enough to be occupied by poultry. A wooden floor close to the ground soon rots, while any space under a floor not high enough to be used for poultry makes a harbor for rats and other vermin.

The wooden floor of a poultry house should have a light coating of dry earth, sand, chaff or similar material, to prevent the droppings of the birds from sticking to and saturating the boards.

Save Every Egg.

Every egg which is the least bit doubtful must be saved for market while it is good, and not spoiled by incubation.

Must Have Materials.

A duck that lays an egg must have materials from which to make large quantities of protein, but does not require much fattening feed.

Retribution

By REV. J. H. RALSTON, D. D.
Secretary of Correspondence Department,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—He that soweth shall reap.—Gal. 6:7.

These words are but a fragment of a text that Dwight L. Moody in his lifetime used frequently with terrific effect and caused thousands of people to believe as they had not believed in the certainty of retribution.

The times in which we find ourselves, men and women are thinking more seriously than they have for several decades. The most of Christendom has been indulging itself with the notion that the law of retribution has been held in abeyance, when suddenly the war clouds burst and now three-fourths of the population of the world are directly involved in war. The sowing of all the past, particularly of the last half century, began to show above the surface, and all efforts to stop the growing into the ripeness of retribution were fruitless. But in these days, not only are 40,000,000 men under arms, directly obeying the commands of those who are over them, even to going to certain death, but the manufacturing and commercial interests of half the world must not only cease to relinquish the profits of business, but must pay billions besides. Moreover, the peoples of the nations concerned are compelled to eat less, to eat what they do not like, and in a hundred other ways contribute to the great war budgets that are offered. All, whether they will or not, have reached the stage of retribution. The nations of the world have sown; they are now reaping.

In somewhat recent times a kind of camouflage of excessive mirth, hilarity and reckless living has been thrown over some of the serious things of life, and they have been forgotten or ignored; retribution is one of them. Possibly some of the more thoughtful people will hunt up "Butler's Analogy of Religion to the Constitution and Course of Nature" and read his words which have a present pertinence and should have a present application. He says: "It has been observed that such and such miseries naturally follow such and such actions of impudence and willfulness, as well as actions more commonly and more distinctly considered as vicious; that these consequences, when they have been foreseen, are properly the natural punishment annexed to such actions." These consequences are quite uniform even to the poor vision of man. If you circle a tree, it will die; if you do not don warm clothing when there is a low temperature, you will take cold; if you swallow poison, you will die; if you decline to eat proper food you will starve. Possibly the practice of forgetting that we are all under law is the reason why so many are indifferent to retribution; and this forgetfulness is possibly due, as Prof. Austin Phelps of Andover once said to the fact that even the children in the home are not taught the consequences of broken law.

But this great truth of retribution not obliterated withdrawn or modified by the Spirit of God still prevails everywhere in the physical world, in ethics and in religion. Never in the history of the world was there greater need than now for the plainest, but most loving preaching of the whole truth, not only the Gospel that Jesus Christ died for the sins of the world, but the self-evident law that "the soul that sinneth, it shall die."

Retribution after death is not denied by intelligent universalists nowadays. Indeed, it is clearly and forcibly proclaimed by them, sometimes with more seriousness than by some evangelical preachers. As men look into the future, not one in scores is troubled about retribution. The life of the departed may have been thoroughly bad, vicious and cruel, and he died as he lived. With many retribution only lies in the fact that life is extinct; the man is dead, he has met his desert. Is that true?

The men who have been guilty of the present condition in Armenia, Belgium, and elsewhere, cannot receive proper retribution by simply being put to death. With men that would seem to be a ripe retribution, but there is a settlement in the future, and we may leave such cries to an infinitely merciful, as well as an infinitely holy God.

In view of future retribution, what is the duty of the hour? Give proper thought to the sowing for retribution and escape the fearful reaping in the future. Remember that sin is malignant; that it brings death here and hereafter. As to the sins that cry out for retribution hereafter, lift up the eyes to the one who has born in his own body all the penalty. However that may reach into the other world and if the sin by the simple act of faith may be laid upon him, the retribution of the future, as far as he is concerned, will not be visited.

Lend Him a Hand!

Here Is YOUR Boy—going over the top, his gun in hand, his jaw set, his heart on fire. It is the most dramatic moment in the life of this soldier—and in the life of this nation.

His heart and mind are set on one thing—VICTORY—victory over an enemy who stands for acts and ideas which this soldier despises—which he is ready to give his life to destroy.

We here at home hate these things, too. We are pledged to their destruction—to our last dollar and our last man. But this soldier can actually—get-his-hands-on-them—and root them out of the world forever—if we will lend him a hand.

This Boy Is the Symbol of Fighting America

He stands for the aspiration, the conviction of a hundred million people translated into action. He is doing what the rest of us are dreaming. Only through him can we win the Victory.

But He Can't Do It With His Bare Hands! He asks you to back him up with guns, shells, tanks, airplanes. Let's lend him a hand by lending our dollars. Then no power in the world can prevent him from winning the Victory.

The long fighting ages of the world have never seen a better soldier than this boy of yours—your son—your husband—your brother—your friend. He stands for the sons of America, hundreds of thousands strong, soon to be millions. He is doing his part—we must do ours!

DAIRY FACTS

ENORMOUS WASTE IN WINTER

Minnesota Dairy Expert Makes Startling Statement as to Amount of Milk That is Wasted.

Three and one-half billion pounds of milk are practically wasted in the dairy states every winter. This makes 21,000,000 pounds every day. The foregoing is a startling statement, but R. M. Washburn of the division of dairy husbandry, Minnesota College of Agriculture, says it is true. The farmer feeds most of his skim milk to hogs. This milk, fed to hogs, produces only 20 per cent of its energy value in edible pork. Eighty per cent of its energy value is lost. Mr. Washburn says, though, that some milk is necessary to start pigs off strongly.

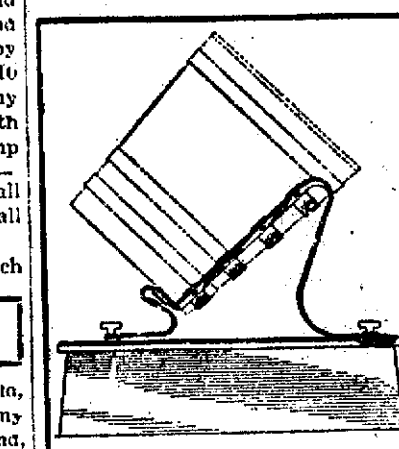

Much more of the energy value of the skim milk will be saved if it is made into cottage cheese. Every 100 pounds of skim milk, says Mr. Washburn, is equivalent to 20 pounds of ordinary meat, and will make 15 pounds of cottage cheese. The cheese contains about one-third more protein and one-third less energy than meat, and is therefore essentially equivalent to meat.

DEVICE ON BUTTER SCALES

Resilient Support Absorbs Most of Shock When Tub is Thrown Hastily on Platform.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing an attachment for scales, invented by F. D. Shea, 104 Chambers street New York, says:

This device is adapted particularly for the weighing of butter. It consists of a resilient support secured to the platform of the scales, which will absorb most of the shock when a tub of butter is thrown hastily thereon.

Attachment for Scales.

thus relieving the scales of jar and making it possible to ascertain the weight of a tub of butter more quickly.

OPEN SHED IS SATISFACTORY

Experiments Conducted by Department of Agriculture on Government Farm at Gettysville.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In experiments at Gettysville, Md., by the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, a warm barn, commonly deemed essential for large milk production during the winter months, proved to be somewhat less satisfactory than an open shed. Experiments extending over three years showed that cows housed in the open shed consumed a little more feed, required more bedding and slightly increased labor cost, but because more milk was produced and on account of the lower cost of housing, the open shed was found to be somewhat more economical.

BEST GRASSES FOR PASTURE

When Sowing Make Up Mixture So That Some of Plants Will Be Growing at All Times.

It is possible for pasture to be so scant that the cow uses up all her energy in securing enough nutrients from it to maintain her body. When sowing for pasture make up a mixture of grasses such that some one of the grasses will be green and palatable at all times of the growing season.

REAL SUCCESS IN DAIRYING

End Can Be Brought About By Partnership Between Good Cow and Intelligent Feeder.

Real success in dairying comes from a partnership between the good cow and the good feeder. Many a good cow fails because never given a chance to prove her ability. If one would be a successful dairyman he must study the business, learn how to know cows and how to feed them.

Building Up Dairy Herd. A good dairy herd is built up only after years of constructive breeding and selection. To sell these herds for beef would be to undo much of the effective work which has been done.

Keep All Milk Cows.

Don't dry up the milk cows. They are going to be scarce and high priced next year.

THE THIRD LIBERTY LOAN

Uncle Sam's in need of more money. To help the boys that are in France, Don't walk around looking so funny, As though coming out of a trance.

The sum of Five Billions of dollars, Quite an item we must admit; But don't get hot under the collar, Reach down in your jeans and remit.

It's a plain fact and you can't dodge it, No matter how you squirm and twist; For McAdoo surely will lodge it, Safe within the government's fist.

'Twould be better if loaned on interest, And so help your country along; Than 'twould be to have the Hun claim it, And you bet he'd make his claim strong.

Then, no interest to you would be paid, The principal too would be gone; So hold up the plan U. S. has made, And help him to avenge the wrong.

Humanity has suffered keenly, Because of the blood-thirsty Hun; So our gold should be given freely, Till the freedom of mankind's won. F. E. Robinson, Bigler, Pa.

GLEN RICHEY FOLKS BUSY

A big Liberty Loan rally will be held in the K. G. E. hall at Glen Richey on Monday, April 22 at 7:30 o'clock. An entertaining musical program has been prepared for the occasion and a couple of Clearfield's very best have been secured to make addresses.

The committee in charge is hard at work day and night to make the affair a success and guarantee to put Glen Richey on the Third Liberty Loan map in bright red ink.

Vin Campbell has been awarded $6,000 back salary from the Federal league. The Feds must have been in existence longer than we supposed for Vin to earn 6,000 bucks.

BIG SURPRISE TO MANY IN CLEARFIELD

People are surprised at the INSTANT action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ka. ONE SPOONFUL flushes the ENTIRE bowel tract so completely it relieves ANY CASE sour stomach, gas or constipation and prevents appendicitis. The INSTANT pleasant action of Adler-ka surprises both doctors and patients. It removes foul matter which poisons your stomach for months. C. W. Dooley, druggist.

HISTORY OF IRISH FIGHT FOR HOME RULE

1870—Isaac Butt became leader of the movement for Irish Home Rule.

1878—Leadership of the movement passed to Charles Stuart Parnell.

1882—Negotiations between Parnell and Gladstone halted by the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke, in Phoenix Park, Dublin.

1886—Gladstone introduced his first Home Rule bill, and it was rejected by thirty votes.

1893—Gladstone succeeded in having his second Home Rule bill passed by the House of Commons, only to have it killed by the House of Lords.

Several succeeding attempts to bring about the enactment of bills to establish self-government in Ireland met with failure, but with each attempt the movement became stronger.

1905—Redmond's motion for a consideration of Home Rule defeated in the House of Commons by fifty votes.

1907—Government presented a Home rule bill. Convention of Irishmen at Dublin rejected it unanimously and the ministry dropped it.

1908—Redmond's motion for a consideration of Home Rule was carried by 156. No further action taken.

1911—Parliament passed an act abolishing the absolute veto power of the Lords.

1912—New Home Rule bill introduced in the House of Commons.

1913—Bill passed the third reading in January by 110 votes. Rejected by the House of Lords.

1913—Introduced a second time in April and passed in July by the Commons by 109 votes. Lords again rejected it.

1914—Passed the House of Commons for the third time on May 25.

1914—Signed by King George V on Sept. 18, and went on statute books.

1915—Application of Home Rule held up pending agreement of the rival Irish factions.

1916—Revolt in Ireland and martial law declared throughout the island. Arrest and execution of Sir Roger Casement and other revolutionists.

1917—Irish Nationalists in House of Commons presented a resolution calling for the immediate application of the Home Rule Law. The Government replied that Home Rule would not be forced upon Ulster.

1918—Premier Lloyd George announced the intention of the Government to apply to Ireland and to grant the immediate application of the Home Rule Law.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out the poisons. Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, constipated, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the struts of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water, with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderful invigorating. While you are enjoying your breakfast, the water and phosphate is quickly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

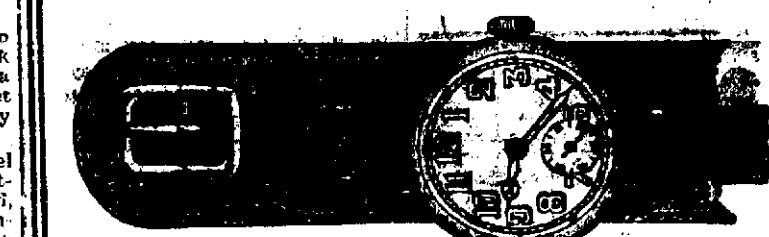

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

FAUNCE HAS A MALINGERER

The little town of Houtzdale or Faunce is up in arms over a slacker or alleged slacker located in their midst. The story as the Faunce people tell is that when one of their young men was called for military service in Class 1 he presented a certificate to the exemption board of District No. 3 reciting the fact that he was so necessary to the prosecution of the clay digging operations of a well known brick making concern that they could not get along without him.

When the facts became generally known a quiet investigation revealed the fact, it is said, that no one in position to sign the name of the firm mentioned, could account for the manner in which their name became attached to the claim for exemption. The board at Houtzdale was notified and the young man will likely be given a cure for "cold feet" and passed along to Camp Lee soon.

KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Sale to Flush Kidneys and Bladder Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, itching sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the bladder sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying, it is sometimes very painful, the really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and bladder with no bad effects whatever.

Now you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The next meeting of the Clearfield Woman's club will be held at the home of Mrs. H. C. Boulton on Saturday evening, April 20th at 8 o'clock instead of the following Tuesday. A table play will be given by members of the club entitled "The Minute" and refreshments will be served. A collection will be taken to raise money for a Liberty Bond. The meeting is open to all members of the club and their friends. A record attendance is hoped for.

Maybe the refusal of so many state officials to sanction the Willard-Palmer bout is due to their uncertainty as to whether it is to be a real fight or one of those whistit affairs.

A LETTER OF THANKS

Speedway, Ind.

Kind Friend: I received the stockings which you gave my sister for me, and I assure you that they were very pleasing and acceptable to me.

The people cannot estimate how much a soldier appreciates these gifts and the confidence that is given him in knowing that every citizen in the country is back of him is beyond measure.

We must stand firm and united more so at the present hour than ever before in the history of the country.

I am in the aviation section and destined to leave for over sea on or before June 3rd. I hope and trust that the feet kept warm by your aid shall do their part in the suppression of the Kaiser and with God's help establish democracy throughout the world. Thanking you once more I am, Dear friend,

INNOVATION DID NOT PLEASE

New Arrival: Somewhat Disgusted, at Change Made in the "Music of the Spheres."

"Come right in," quoth St. Peter; when you have received your wings step over to window 43 and get your player piano."

The new arrival seemed puzzled. "My player piano?" he ejaculated incredulously. "I thought you gave out harps here."

"I've said, until recently," said the stately saint, "but there were so many complaints—newcomers from earth said it would take them so long to play on them—that we decided to give out player pianos instead. It's not so bad, we find, when one gets used to it."

"And this is paradise!" mused the new arrival. "In the apartment house where I last lived on earth I used to kick because there were four of them—only four."

Here he sighed deeply.

The Unendurable Forties

Time was when the middle forties seemed an admirable age. One was old enough to have learned a little of contentment; young enough to undertake new things. It was an age to take up golf, seriously without giving up tennis. It was an age to read Dickens, even to undertake Trollope, and still to watch the outcoming magazines.

Now it's a sad age—too old to be of real use, too old even to be wanted, but young enough to feel the pull. The government doesn't ask you, or if it does it rejects you.

Blessed and burdened with a wife and family, the man of the middle forties can't even ask to do the things he dreams of doing. Single, he learns of a blood pressure he never even knew he had. Too old to march with the parade, too young to stand contentedly on the sidewalk and watch, he lags along, hopeful that he will be let carry water and ashamed to be seen doing it.

Days like these one should be twenty, and well in it, or seventy, and certainly out of it.—New York Sun.

Electricity to Help Insane.

Electricity as a palliative or even a preventive of insanity in its early stages is receiving serious attention in scientific circles, according to reports made before the annual convention of the American Electro-Therapeutic Association.

It was said in discussion that experts who are specializing in electro-therapy have achieved remarkable results in the case of melancholia and epilepsy, and the restoration of normal mental activities.

Most important results have been attained in the treatment of melancholia and other cerebral disorders through the use of galvanic currents. Results, almost if not quite as encouraging, have been procured by Philadelphia in the correction of defects of the vision by electricity after eye experts had pronounced cases to be hopeless.

Dr. Alfred T. Livingston of Jamestown, N. Y., warned the electro-therapists against extreme currents, detained through applying the electrode to the base of the nerve centers of the brain.

This Is Probably a Chestnut.

"Something's got to be done to get rid of the mice in this house," declared Mrs. Youngblood.

"Set a trap for 'em," counseled her husband, sagely.

"Never! I can't bear to take the poor little nasty things out of a trap. I've got some poison."

"How are you going to feed it to 'em?"

"I'm going to spread it on a piece of that cake I baked the other day, and put it where they can get it."

"But that would be a dreadful waste."

"I'll only use a little piece."

"I mean it will be a waste of poison. Why not just let 'em eat the cake?"

Then she took the cake and chaffed the children with it.

Too Much to Ask.

"And I was walking along that lonely street, and an awful man jumped out of a dark alley and kissed me?"

"Heaven! What did you do?"

"I screamed, and the man ran away. Then I went right straight to the village constable and demanded that he find the man and arrest him. And the constable said he would. He said he had a bloodhound that could trail any criminal to his lair."

"And did he?"

"No. The constable said I'd have to kiss the bloodhound, so that he could get the scent."

The Government's Come-Down.

"So you've got to file an income tax statement?"

"Yes."

"How glad you must be to have made yourself rich enough to do that."

"You've got the wrong idea of me. I haven't risen to the dignity of an income; the government has merely lowered its standards to my level for the purpose of taxation."

Good Advice.

"Why so thoughtful?"

"Is marriage a failure?" asked the bride.

"Opinions vary. Don't start with that assumption, anyhow."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mrs. Robert Newlon of Kylertown is the guest of Miss Ruth Clark at her home on West Front street.

WEDDINGS

GARMAN—RHONE

On last Thursday evening, Clarence Garman and Jessie Rhone slipped away from their friends and were married at the Presbyterian Manse by Dr. Reeve. A host of friends will wish them a long and happy life together.

EMERICK—PENTZ

Reuben D. Emerick and Beatrice M. Pentz were united in marriage on Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. W. W. Hartman at the Trinity Methodist parsonage. Mr. Emerick is well known in DuBois where he is a successful young business man and will leave in a few months in response to the nation's call for men to win the war. The bride is one of Lutherburg's popular young women, a graduate nurse from the Ridgway hospital, and will match the patriotism of her husband by enlisting for service with the Red Cross. The Progress joins with their numerous friends in extending congratulations, and indulges the hope that these splendid young people may come out of the war without a scratch and "live happily together every afterward."

OLD TYPO IN TOWN

Gus Laporte, of Curwensville, was a Clearfield visitor yesterday, and while in town dropped in to the Progress office to see his printer friends. Time was, before the Linotype invaded the rural districts when Gus could pretty near be right in styled a human typesetting machine, and had the reputation of being one of the very fastest type stickers in the "art preservative" knew in these parts. We are not going to say how many years ago that was, either.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

Mrs. Ashley Rihel gave a miscellaneous shower last evening at her home on McBride street in honor of her daughter Mrs. Lyle Johnson who is a recent bride.

Games, music and knitting were engaged in until a late hour when delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Johnson was the recipient of many beautiful gifts of linen, cut glass, china and cooking utensils.

Manager Cancellation of the Minneapolis team had to go to California, sign Sawyer, the former Washington comedian. Evidently not all of the year's funny stuff is pulled on the ball.

Spring Suits—Fashioned of the New Silks

Have you seen the new silk suits? Have you noted the striking effects and the real wonderful silks used? There are beautiful suits of taffeta and poplin. Practically impossible to describe the styles, entirely new in design and of superior quality material and workmanship. Prices from $29.75 to $65

For Friday and Saturday Only—Special Sale of $3.00 Trimmed Hats at $3.95

The woman who feels that she cannot secure an individual, charming little hat at $3.95 need only see these to make her change her mind in a moment. Furthermore, they are so well made you would think it impossible, if you did not actually see the price tickets attached.

Many of the new rough braids are shown; some combining grosgrain ribbon crown with straw brim; the new tricorne and pokes with silks and flowers. We cannot describe them—you must see them yourself.

Special Sale and Display of New Waists

A Very Special Showing of Waists At $1.00

We want to lay special emphasis on the quality of voile and lawn used in these waists, as well as the attractive styles and superior workmanship. These three points are of special interest at this time when cotton goods are so high and when it is very difficult to secure even an ordinary waist at $1.00. They are on display at a special table.

A Superior Collection of Voile and Organdy Blouses at $1.95, $2.95, $3.50 up to $7.50

With the coming of milder weather, the voile blouse again dominates Fashion. Not only because voile and organdy blouses are pretty and desirable, but also because of the three prices mentioned above are very newest styles, trimmed in lace, embroidery effects, frills, buttons, tucks, etc. One prettier than the other.

Crepe de Chine Blouses at $3.50

Made of soft, beautiful crepe de chine in flesh color, maize, peach or white. One model hemstitched and finished with fastenings in front of frock, button links. Another style is combined with washable silk with the new printed foulard designs. Still another finds relief from former fashions with a distinctively new frill collar. All in all a wonderful group of waists.

Others from $5.00 to $5.95.

A Very Special Offering of Georgette Crepe Blouses at $5.95

The trimming ideas are unusually effective and are formed of beads, embroidery, tucks, lace, may be had in white, flesh and other shades. A number have a combination of colors.

Other Georgette crepe waists at $7.50, $9.75, up to $12.50.
